Wil-Mar Neighborhood Center Open House – Moving The Center Forward!

The public is invited to gather at the Wil-Mar Neighborhood Center, 953 Jenifer Street, Madison, Wisconsin, for a “Moving Forward” Open House, Saturday, February 23rd between 1 & 4 pm.

Wil-Mar, Madison’s busiest community center, is the beloved decades-old home to dozens of community meetings, non-profit and worship groups, martial arts classes, and small-business starts (especially those using the Center’s commercial kitchen). The Center is host to highly recognized after-school and adult programs, and is also well-known as the home to two of Madison’s oldest cultural institutions, the Scottish Country Dance Club and the folk music venue, Wild Hog in the Woods Coffeehouse. Wil-Mar is a long-established 501© 3 organization which produces Southwest Wisconsin’s wildly popular annual French-themed world music festival, La Fete de Marquette, and co-produces Madison’s oldest and most diverse street festival, The Willy Street Fair.

Now the Wil-Mar Neighborhood Center seeks direct community input to chart its own future.

Neighbors of all ages are welcome to share ideas and suggestions with Wil-Mar Center staff and board of directors about future programming and envisioned building renovation plans.

A casual, drop-in format to accommodate families and individuals will allow folks to come and go at their own pace. Williamson Street area eateries are contributing snacks and beverages, and a staffed activity room for children will be provided.
